MARCHES WEEKLY BULLETIN

Dear Parents and Carers,

Yellow Box Marking – helping your child progress

Feedback in books for your child will often require them to do some further work – responding to targets set. Teachers show where this work is required by using a yellow box around the task, with the size of the box showing the depth of the response that is needed.

Targets set will build on the task, allowing your child to demonstrate deep understanding and progress.

Your child knows that they are responsible for making sure they complete all their 'yellow boxes'. Please ask them, when they say they have no homework, are all their yellow boxes responded to?

Non Uniform Day – Friday 13th October

Each house has one non-uniform day to lead on through the year, with this one being led by Mallory House.

The choice of charity the students will support is changing this year – with local charities coming to speak at our whole school assembly before half term, giving the students the opportunity to vote for the charity the school will support for the year.

The Student Council are currently working hard preparing for this event, and we will keep you updated.
